TAX RECEIPTS GROW DESPITE LOWER RATES

May Returns Net $5,000,000 More Than Corresponding Month Last Year.

SEEK FURTHER REDUCTION

Experts Claim Surplus Would Enable U. S. to Pay Off Debt in 14 Years

Washington—Growth in the federal tax receipts in spite of the fact that lower rates of taxation have been provided is having a profound effect on congress.

The truth is that nobody, not even the secretary of the treasury, has been able to form an accurate estimate of the tremendous proportions of American prosperity in the last two years. The fact that May receipts from all sources this year were more than $5,000,000 dollars higher than the corresponding month last year has provoked much curiosity here as to what are the factors that keep swelling the tax receipts. Income tax collections as distinguished from receipts from customs duties and miscellaneous taxes amounted to nearly $42,000,000 more for the 11 month period beginning with July 1, 1925, and ending with May 31 of this year than they did for the corresponding 11 month period of the preceding year. In the receipts for the period ending on May 31 last, there are included the March receipts which are based on much lower rates of taxation than the preceding year. This alone would seem to prove in the tax experts that the productivity of low rates of taxation has been established beyond question of a doubt and has strengthened the view of those who are advocating an even lower rate of taxation all along the line. Instead of being faced with deficits, the treasury has in the last three years shown a steady increase in receipts and a substantial surplus.

WORKS IN REVERSE
Even the miscellaneous receipts have gone up by more than $53,000,000 which is another evidence of the generally prosperous condition of the country. It is significant, on the other hand, that corporation tax receipts for the month of May 1926 have shown a decrease of nearly $3,000,000 dollars. This result is partially the result of slight increase in the corporation tax rate which is interesting to note that in the single important respect in which the tax rate was raised the receipts fell off.

The big fight in the next discussion that is held about tax revision will come on the corporation tax rates. The increase in the present law was determined upon at the last minute as a means of meeting some of the concessions given in the general schedule of income tax rates and there has begun already a determined movement to have the corporation tax rate recede. It is also probable that the surtax will again be subject to some revision though as substantial a reduction as was made this year is, of course, out of the question.

DISCUSS TAXATION
Members of congress will this summer hear a good deal about taxation for the figures will soon be available on which to base an answer to the question of whether the public debt is being reduced too rapidly and whether a period of 35 years would not be better for the payment of that debt than the present schedule of about 20 years. Indeed, if the surpluses continue as at present and they are applied to the reduction of the public debt instead of to tax reduction, there are some experts who figure that the entire public debt may be paid off in 14 years more. This point will be the subject of much debate in the next session of congress when all the facts and figures will have been made available and completely analyzed. It is worth noting, however, that the under-current of talk for another tax reduction has started here.

LIFE SAVING CREW SEEKS CRIPPLED BOAT

Chicago—(AP)—Coast guard headquarters Tuesday from the life saving crew sent on Tuesday night to search for the crippled yacht with four passengers reported adrift in the middle of Lake Michigan. A steamer bound for Gary which had taken the yacht in tow, was traveling too rapidly, the crew said, and the yacht crew cut the tow line, although a high wind made the lake dangerous enough for small craft.

Try Bootleg Repeaters Under Severson Law

Madison—(AP)—Bootleggers who have only violations of prohibition laws as their previous record must be sentenced under the Severson act's provisions for repeaters, but those who have violated other laws in the past may be sentenced under the habitual criminal act.

This, in effect, was the ruling of the Wisconsin supreme court Monday in six cases in which alleged prohibition law violators were convicted.

"While it is true that the state prohibition law has defined specific offenses and prescribed specific penalties," Justice Rosenberry said, "in the opinion, 'that does not destroy the applicability of other statutes in cases where the terms of the prohibition act are not applicable. He said the court may choose the law under which to impose sentence, when there is an alternative."

Repeaters under the prohibition law may only be sent to jail, but habitual criminals may be sentenced to state prison.

In ousting Glenn V. Pierce, Mondovi, from the office of county judge of Buffalo Co., on the ground that revocation of his license to practice law in Wisconsin disqualified him, the court said, through Justice Eschweiler.

"As a general proposition the Wisconsin statutes are to be construed and considered as relating to people and institutions within the state of Wisconsin; as intra-territorial and not extra-territorial." The statutes require a county judge to be "an attorney of the court of record" and the decision holds that it means a Wisconsin court. The decision not make necessary the appointment of a successor to Pierce by Governor Blaine.

In declaring the Milwaukee building heights ordinance null and void, the court declared building heights are a matter of general concern under the state's police powers and therefore not subject to home rule.

W. C. T. U. HAS $100,000 TO AID DRY LAW

Tell Probe Board That Money Is Used Only to Enforce Prohibition Act

Washington—(AP)—A story of how the Women's Christian Temperance union is contributing to enforcement of the prohibition law in Pennsylvania was added Tuesday to the discredited record of testimony before senate campaign funds committee.

From Mrs. Ella M. George, the W. C. T. U. state president, and other witnesses, the committee developed that the organization had raised more than $100,000 as an enforcement fund and that out of this chest has been paid the salaries of two deputy attorneys general and the maintenance costs of a special bureau in the state capital at Harrisburg. The expenditures included in some cases the costs of printing briefs in prohibition prosecutions.

The witnesses were called as a result of a suggestion that some of the money may have gone for political campaign purposes, but they submitted an audited account covering all payments and joined in denying that there had been any diversions for improper purposes.

PINCHOT AIDS WORK

Mrs. George said Governor Pinchot knew about the expenditures of the special fund which was raised after the state legislature had failed to appropriate as much as the organization thought necessary for enforcement work.

"He was in close touch with the work as I was," she said. "I visited the offices of the men in charge frequently."

What you knew, the governor knew," asked Senator Goff, Republican, West Virginia.

"Yes sir."

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, the committee chairman asked for light also on the union's activities before the legislature.

"When you went down to Harrisburg to lobby, was anybody with you?" he asked.

"No, except now and then when we had meetings of some officers there. My job is legislative superintendent and it is my business to be there when the legislature is in session."

START CAMPAIGN TO REVIVE DRYS

New York Meet Intends to Restore Prohibition Party in Every State

New York—(AP)—A movement to revive the prohibition party in every state in the union will be launched Thursday, when the party holds a state convention here to place a complete state ticket in the field for the elections this fall, says D. Leigh Colvin, national chairman of the party.

The gubernatorial nominee probably will be Edward G. Dietrich, of Syracuse, president of the Wesleyan Methodist church in the United States.

On the other hand, W. H. Strayton, chairman of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, who has just returned from a western tour, said groups have been organized in Illinois, Wisconsin, Missouri, Montana, Colorado and Nevada, under the auspices of his association. In Wisconsin, Montana, Illinois and Colorado, he said, plans have been made to insure at the coming elections prohibition referenda similar to the one to be voted on in New York state this fall.

FRENCH BOMBARD DUSE TRIBLES

See No Let Up in Guerilla Warfare Around Walls of Damascus

Damascus—(AP)—There is no cessation in the daily bombardment of dissident Druse tribesmen positions in the outlying gardens by the French, and daily there is an exchange of rifle and machine gun fire. A special correspondent of the Associated Press has been unable to ascertain the loss of Mr. T. Druses have no general staff and issue no communiqués and to venture outside the walls of Damascus to get information would mean death.

Neutral witnesses of this guerrilla warfare say the property destroyed amounts to about $6,000,000.

Neutral businessmen and diplomats say that Damascus will be entirely wrecked inside of a year should the present situation continue. One third of the city is now in ruins.

No atrocities have been charged against real French soldiers, but tales of brutality, ranging from looting to cold blooded murders, are related about the Circassian and Armenian mercenaries in the pay of France, who are numerous.

CAL OUTLINES NEW PROGRAM FOR ECONOMY

Predicts Treasury Surplus of $390,000,000 for This Fiscal Year

Washington—A treasury surplus of $390,000,000 for this fiscal year, ending June 30, was predicted Monday night by President Coolidge but he withheld promise of early tax reduction pending a test of a program of "constructive economy" which he said should net surpluses also for the next two years.

Addressing the semi-annual budget meeting, Mr. Coolidge estimated that the next fiscal year, beginning July 1 should be closed with a surplus of $185,000,000 on the basis of present estimates of receipts and expenditures, and the following year with a margin of $20,000,000.

"It would be unfortunate to raise hopes of future tax relief," he continued, "until we are sure that the state of our finances justifies it. To raise such hopes at this time might be to encourage business to anticipate again, as it did in 1925, further tax reduction. This might have a detrimental effect upon the stabilization of the country under the present tax law."

TO REDUCE PERSONNEL

Facing the necessity of public improvements such as the recently authorized building program, the president said, the government could not expect an "appreciable reduction" in total annual expenses, and he proposed therefore a "radical reduction in personnel."

Debt reduction was also emphasized by Mr. Coolidge as an essential element in constructive economy. Every dollar applied to the debt was at least four cents a year in interest to the people of this and coming generations, he said.

The President again reproached the state and local governments for their increased expenses, warning it was fraught with grave consequences. In 1912, he said, the cost of all government in this country was $9,600,000,000, of which federal expenditures constituted almost 60 per cent. In 1925 the cost of all government has increased to 11,500,000,000 of which 27 per cent was represented by federal expenditures.

While expenditures of the federal government probably will reach $2,600,000,000 for the next fiscal year, Mr. Coolidge expressed a hope the following year could be concluded at a cost of $2,200,000,000 exclusive of the Postal Service and tax refunds.

Miss Louise Phelps Kellogg, research associate of the Wisconsin State Historical society and an authority on early American history, especially of this section, also is now a doctor of letters.

Dr. William Snow Miller, professor emeritus of anatomy at Wisconsin, was honored largely for his research in tuberculosis with a degree of doctor of science. The same degree was conferred upon Charles Frederick Burgess, Madison battery manufacturer and Alfred North Whitehead professor of philosophy in Harvard university.

Academic degrees were presented to 1,480 graduates, including 224 masters and doctors. In the ceremony in Randall stadium, President Glenn Frank in an address to the graduates expressed the wish that they "may ever be worthy representatives of the spirit of liberalism and may ever practice and perfect the art of self-government."

PILOTS RENIG ON CONTRACT FOR AIR MAIL

Abandon Chicago - Milwaukee-Twin Cities Service Because of Unsafe Planes

Chicago—(AP)—Lack of business, bad weather and required flying on a faster schedule than he said was contracted for were blamed by the contract holder as partly responsible for the cancellation of the Chicago-Milwaukee-Twin Cities air mail service Monday when his pilots failed to appear to take out their planes. The mail was sent by rail.

One of the pilots, Dan Kiser of Milwaukee, announced he had resigned and would not fly on the route again unless Charles Dickinson, owner of the contract, furnished faster and safer planes.

"The ones we've been using are too slow to keep up with the schedule in calm weather," he asserted. "Flying in a small gale with them is hazardous to life."

In Minneapolis, Pilot Nimmo Black was unable to take off because of a southwest wind of high velocity, he wired Dickinson. The St. Louis air mail route also was forced to suspend for the day because of weather conditions.

BLAMES PILOT TEMPERAMENT

Reports that the pilots had struck were deprecated by Dickinson, who said that if there was a strike he knew nothing of it.

"These fliers have more temperament than opera stars," he asserted. "I'm doing all I can to maintain the schedule."

Dickinson declared that his contract was being carried at a loss and that the amount of air mail for Minneapolis and St. Paul from here was negligible. Recently he said one pilot had carried two and two pounds of mail from Chicago to Minneapolis and had picked up only $180 worth at Milwaukee. The contractor also said the planes had been put in service under a 90 mile contract and forced under new schedules to do 102 miles an hour.

The Chicago-Twin Cities route was put into service less than a month ago. One of the pilots on the inaugural day schedule was killed when his ship crashed in a storm.

WON'T ANNOUNCE FRENCH CABINET

Paris—(AP)—Ratification or non-ratification of the Washington debt settlement and decisions on other questions bearing on stabilization of exchange and final renovation of French finances will determine whether Aristide Briand's tenth cabinet, which is now completely recruited, will be officially announced.

Mr. Briand, who is asked to take the finance ministry which he left about four months ago after an adverse vote in the chamber, makes his acceptance conditional upon a previous agreement by the members of the new cabinet on the precise financial program which the ministry would be obligated to defend without amendment before parliament.

This plan, which was discussed nearly three hours Tuesday by Premier Briand, M. Doumer, and others, is understood to involve refunding of the interior debt at lower rates of interest, and an increase in direct taxes, with corresponding reductions in such taxes as have, according to financial experts, caused exportation of capital.

Ratification of the Washington debt agreement is opposed by M. Doumer because he deems it too burdensome, but it is demanded by the expert committee on finances as essential to stabilization. This question was discussed lengthily at Tuesday's conference.

M. Briand expressed himself as confident that he would be able to announce his cabinet officially before nightfall.

BREWSTER WINS MAINE PRIMARY FOR GOVERNOR

Portland, Maine—(AP)—Governor Ralph O. Brewster, has been renominated by Maine Republicans. He is his opponent Major Arthur L. Thayer, of Bangor, from the first returns of Monday's primary. Tuesday, his margin was 14,430 with the votes of small towns missing. Returns from 508 of the 633 precincts gave: Brewster 43,251; Thayer 28,821.

Major Thayer made the chief issue of his campaign against Governor Brewster a constitutional amendment prohibiting the appropriation of public funds for private schools and other institutions, passed by the last legislature, and to come before the voters at the state election in September. Brewster won his nomination and election two years ago on a platform favoring such an amendment and in that campaign was openly supported by the K. K. K.

SUB CHASER GOES ON ROCKS DURING GALE

Mackinaw City, Mich.—(AP)—The United States sub chaser 432 which went on the rocks late Monday during a gale, was released Tuesday afternoon by the steaming tug Favorite of St. Ignace. It is not believed the vessel was badly damaged.

The sub chaser carried a crew of 25 Green Bay naval reservists.

Congress Gathers Most Women Ever Assembled

Chicago—(AP)—The greatest assemblage of women ever gathered within one enclosure in America banked the stands in Soldier's field Tuesday for the second public session of the Eucharistic ceremonies. It was women's day and the vast arena harbored less than 5,000 men in the throng of 180,000 worshippers.

Solemn pontifical mass at the great outdoor altar was celebrated by the Most Rev. Joseph Palco, archbishop of Filippi and vice gerent of Rome.

A woman's choir of 15,000, including 5,000 hooded nuns, chanted the "Missa Rosa Mystica" the famous mass of Vito Carnevali.

Governor Al Smith, of New York and Mayor William E. Dever of Chicago, former Senator David L. Walsh of Massachusetts and other lay Catholics stressed the note of tolerance in addresses before a gathering of the English speaking Knights of St. Gregory Monday night.

"The glorious reception of the cardinals in New York and the acclaim with which they traversed the state on their way here places New York in the forefront of the states prepared to deny there is any spirit of bigotry in America," said Governor Smith before the Knights of St. Gregory.

The empire state executive saw congress as a great "influence for good among men, for good to our land, and the whole world."

Mayor Dever said that "nothing but good for all creeds can come from this gathering," and he declared the event had given him a "higher degree of hope for the destiny of America" than anything that had ever gone before.

Isadore B. Docweller of California paid a tribute to the non-Catholics of Chicago, saying he had marveled not only at the respect shown the congress, but at the sympathy extended to it. He called it "a magnificent evidence of civic toleration," and an example for the entire country.

Declaring that "millions of men not of our faith hold high religious faith," former Senator Walsh said that "our example, is a support to Christian brotherhood everywhere."

LORD DEMANDS REDUCTION IN U. S. EMPLOYES

Washington—(AP)—A reduction of at least two per cent in the number of federal employees next year was demanded by Director Lord of the Budget, with the approval of President Coolidge, in an address Monday night to department heads at the semi-annual Budget meeting.

Such a slash in the federal personnel would mean a saving of $30,000,000 next year, Mr. Lord said, and constitutes the chief departmental problem in the president's policy of "constructive economy."

"The task can be accomplished, the budget chief explained, without the discharge of an employee but by the expedient of not filling vacancies. The number of vacancies in the civil service total about 9 per cent of the entire personnel each year.

On April 30 this year there were 246,419 executive civil service employees, exclusive of the postal people, Mr. Lord said, a reduction of 16,290 during President Coolidge's administration and compared to 656,872 employees on the pay rolls on Armistice day, November 11, 1918.

The president's program of expenditures for the next two fiscal years, the director said, meant there must be the closest scrutiny of every expenditure.

"We must make each dollar sweat," he said.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT AS PEDDLER DROPS DIME

Chicago—(AP)—A peddler dropped a dime in the Maxwell-st. district and the scramble to recover it resulted in a squabble that ended with four men in the county hospital and four others in jail. The trouble started when one man picked up the dime and refused to give it to the rightful owner. Three police squads quelled the disturbance.

WATCHMAN TARGET OF BURGLAR BULLETS

Iron River, Mich.—The attempt of an armed burglar to rob the Iron River creamery was frustrated early Sunday when Jack Scott, night watchman, surprised the thieves as they were opening the safe. The burglar fired the watchman outside the windows the man at the till opened fire, shooting three times. Scott dropped and the shots went over his head. His return fire was also too high.

When Scott fired the robber ran to the back of the creamery, shot out the window of a rear door, jumped through, and escaped through an alley. A checkup showed $5.70 gone from the till.

RAILROAD TESTS ELECTRIC TRAIN

Chicago and Northwestern Line Installs 3 Combination Cars of Latest Design

Chicago—(AP)—Three combination cars of the latest design, driven by an electric motor with a gasoline engine to generate power, will be installed in the service of the Chicago and Northwestern railroad this week. The first car was being brought to the railway shops Tuesday from the St. Louis Car Co. factory.

Designed for passenger, mail and baggage service, the cars are the first of their type to be used on a western line. They will accommodate 42 passengers and operate at 45 miles per hour. One car will run between Clinton and Anamosa, Iowa, 72 miles; another between Kenosha and Harvard, Ill., 45 miles, and the third between St. Ignace and Milwaukee, 125 miles. If the experiment proves the cars efficient they will be extended to other parts of the system.

BUGGY RIDING

For us elders, Henry Ford and others of his ilk, have put buggy riding in the limbo of all-but-forgotten social activities.

For infants, though, buggy riding remains their chief employment al fresco. Consequently, there's always a market for baby-buggies, just as there is a market for dinosaur's eggs. But to find in this aggregation of potential buyers of baby-buggies an immediate purchaser, requires the services of a Post-Crescent classified ad.

Mrs. Arthur Nicholas, 513 N. Clark Street, needed scarcely forty-five minutes to sell one of these aforementioned R-E's after she placed an ad in the "Merchandise For Sale" columns of the classified.

Whenever YOU have household goods to sell, a call to 543 and a short speech with an advertiser will do the trick.

CHAMPION OF BEER WINS BY BIG MAJORITY

Maas Is Youngest Man Ever Chosen by Electorate in State

ADVOCATES LIGHT WINE

Governor Christianson Is Again Elected on Economy Platform

St. Paul, Minn.—(AP)—Minnesota voters Monday nominated their first prohibition modification advocate for congress and renominated their Republican governor.

Melvin J. Maas, of St. Paul, who is only 28 years old and the youngest man ever to be chosen by the electorate to run for congress in this state, polled as many votes as his two opponents together to win the Republican nomination in the fourth district.

Governor Theodore Christianson, running again on the "economy" platform, was elected him two years ago, defeated Mayor George E. Leach, of Minneapolis, for the Republican gubernatorial nomination by a good margin. Mayor Leach early Tuesday conceded defeat.

Maas, who favored modification of the Volstead act to permit light wines and beer, but no saloons, ousted Representative Oscar E. Keller in the fourth district, which includes St. Paul and Ramsey Co.

Keller ran a poor third in a field of three. He and Fred A. Snyder, the other candidate, came out in support of the present prohibition law. Maas polled 15,000 votes to slightly more than 8,900 for Snyder and 5,700 for Keller.

JOHNSON LEADS RACE
Returns from other congressional districts which had party contests were still too meagre to indicate the outcome, six of the incumbents, however, had no party opposition at Monday's primary.

In the other major state race, for the U. S. senate, the gubernatorial nomination, Magnus Johnson, former United States senator from Minnesota, and Tom Davis an attorney of Minneapolis, were running a close race, with Johnson several hundred votes in the lead, with about one sixth of the state heard from.

The Democrats had an unopposed slate and therefore did not appear on the ballots in the primary.

Thomas V. Sullivan, of St. Paul, was nominated as the farmer-labor candidate for congress from the fourth district, and with a Democratic candidate not yet selected, will open a race in November.

Sullivan defeated William M. Meiners by an overwhelming majority.

BOEHM MUST GO TO STATE PRISON, HIGH COURT SAYS

Supreme Court Affirms Year's Sentence for Appleton Man

Anton Boehm, convicted of failing to stop after he knocked down Benjamin Beschta here on July 21, 1925, will have to serve a year in state prison to which he was sentenced by Judge Theodore Berg, the state supreme court ruled Monday. Boehm appealed the sentence to the high court which affirmed the trial tribunal. Application for pardon for Boehm was made to Governor Blaine shortly after his conviction but the governor deferred action pending the decision of the supreme court.

Boehm, accompanied by Vincent Foster, drove a car which knocked Beschta down at the corner of North and Merion streets and failed to stop. He was arrested during the evening of the accident and shortly afterward was sued by Beschta who spent many weeks in a hospital. Beschta received about $2,500 and Boehm then was tried for failing to stop after injuring a person.

He testified in court that he did not know he struck Beschta but was found guilty. The case was carried to the supreme court on the plea that inasmuch as the law does not specify where a person shall be imprisoned for conviction in such cases Boehm should not be made to lose his civil rights by imprisonment in the state prison.

Boehm was taken into custody Monday night at Fond du Lac at the request of Sheriff Peter Schwartz who acted on instructions from District Attorney John A. Lonsdorf. Whether Boehm will be taken to prison at once or whether he will be held until pending a motion for a rehearing before the court here has not been definitely determined.

Boehm has been at liberty on bond since his conviction but it is understood that his bondsmen now are ready to surrender him.

Coolidge Urges U. S. To Pay Debt To Cut Expenses

Washington—The text of the address by President Coolidge at the semi-annual budget meeting follows: At the Budget meeting of the United States Government held at Washington June 21, 1926 at 5 o'clock p. m. President Coolidge spoke as follows:

Members of the Government's Business Organization

The more these business meetings of the United States Government increase in number the more I am impressed with their surpassing importance. They are held for the purpose of discussing the financial affairs of one of the greatest business institutions in the world. Primarily, we consider the corporate welfare of the Federal Government, but that is not the ultimate object. The real purpose for which we are assembled is to discuss plans and adopt policies to improve the welfare, progress and prosperity of 117,000,000 people. What we do here reaches into every home in the land. It determines whether the taxpayer is going to require more money from the head of the household to meet the cost of maintaining the Government, or whether the taxpayer is going to leave more money with the head of the household to meet the cost of maintaining the family. Our efforts here are translated into benefits for the head of the household and his family. This does not mean that any one of us should refuse to make any outlay which is for the development of the country and the benefits of the people, but taking all these elements into consideration, it does mean a strict adherence to the principle of constructive economy.

It is not, then, for the purpose of discontinuing any of these public functions which are really for the benefit of the people that we have been working under a budget system for the past five years. It is rather to secure a wiser use of our national resources and a more satisfactory results at less cost. More work and better work for a smaller outlay of the money of the taxpayer are the real test of a progressive administration.

In performance of your daily work you are naturally concerned with the immediate task which confronts you. You know the immediate result of your labor. You may not know its effect on the operations of the entire Federal Government. But it is the sum total of the daily tasks measures of public efficiency. No task is so small that the efforts of its performer loses its influence on the product of the whole. Individual effort brings collective results.

The effort has been to improve the public service by elimination of waste and lost motion and by constructive conservation of our resources. The effort has not been to reduce the expense of the Government at the expense of the public welfare. It has been to reduce expense for the benefit of the public welfare. It has been an effort for constructive economy. So long as the Government remains this work will not end. That you may know the results of your collective effort it has been our custom to hold these meetings twice each year.

It was but nine years ago that the Federal Government was obliged to draft not only the persons but the property of the people to meet the requirements of the World War. It was less than eight years ago that this Nation faced the host of problems arising from military demobilization of persons and industry. The intervening period has been one of restoration and rehabilitation. It is to these ends that our efforts have been directed. Much has been accomplished, but much remains to be accomplished. The orderly management of our affairs is a perpetual test of our ability. You have demonstrated what can be done and I am confident will continue unabated the effort for even greater accomplishment.

We can not anticipate further appreciable reduction in the total annual expenditure for the business of the Government. Our main chance comes in debt reduction. It was estimated in the last Budget that we would spend this year $9,000,000 more than we spent last year. That estimate, as shown by the returns to date, will prove to be substantially correct. But this effort to protect our governmental business, to round out the accomplishment of the task on which such a notable beginning has been made, offers unlimited opportunity for economical administration. Your best efforts and the continued support and cooperation of Congress will be required to hold our expenditures for the Government business at approximately their present level.

We are not striving to save the dollar simply to save it. We are striving to save the dollar at the expense of the public service. Rather do we approach it from the other side and save the dollar for the good that it will bring to the people whom we serve. We can make the dollar purchase more by purchasing more wisely. We can eventually save money by a justified expenditure today which will reduce future annual unproductive expenditures. This is constructive economy. Congress has most wisely provided a program of constructive economy in the two public buildings laws, one for domestic use and one for our foreign legations. These measures will eliminate annual cost for rentals which bring us no future returns.

The recent act providing for construction at military posts and stations is also a measure of constructive economy. The funding of our debt at lower rates of interest has been another notable achievement in constructive economy. Every dollar that has been applied to the reduction of the debt has saved the people of this Nation and the generations to come at least 4 cents per year in interest. Keep this in mind in your administration of public funds. Every dollar that you save swells the surplus which goes to the further reduction of our debt. Thus every saved dollar saves at least 4 cents per year in interest to the taxpayer. In considering immediate projects or requirements you should have in mind their future benefit so that the element of possible constructive economy in contemplated expenditures may not be overlooked.

The budget system prescribed by Congress in 1921 coordinated our financial requirements. It paved the way for the coordination which now exists in the Government's routine business. We are transacting our business in a coordinate and business way. If we have duplications of overlapping of departmental authority we are minimizing the possibility of waste in effort or expenditure by coordination of policy and action. The improvement in the public service is apparent and expressive. It is apparent in the manner in which its business is being translated. It is expressive in the lessening requirement of funds for administration. The budget system is not the system of any one agency in the Federal service. Each of you in the public service is an integral and important part of this system. Your allegiance to it is inseparable from your allegiance to the Federal Government. And this includes the accounting elements of the budget system vested in the General Accounting Office. The task of the Comptroller is a difficult one, but his functions are vital to the operation of the budget system. Your cooperation with the Comptroller General is essential.

As a natural sequence to the law adjusting the compensation of civilian officers and employees of the Government the Congress has recently enacted a law adjusting their travel allowances. This law provides adequate rates of reimbursement for expense of travel. It does justice to both the traveler and the Government. The new law takes effect July 1, 1926. I wish to direct your attention particularly to the provision that any increases deemed necessary to be made in the rates of actual expenses or per diem allowance under the authority of the new law shall not be authorized by the heads of the departments and establishments to the extent of incurring a deficiency in appropriations during the fiscal year 1927.

At this eleventh meeting of the business organization of the Government it is proper to recount briefly the accomplishments of these last five years in which your efforts have played such a material part. It is for this purpose and to define plans for the immediate future that we hold these conferences.

On June 30, 1921, the public debt amounted to $23,377,000,000, carrying an annual interest charge of $1,018,000,000. At the close of this year the debt will be standing at approximately $19,850,000,000, with an interest charge of $808,000,000. This shows since 1921 a reduction of nearly four and one-quarter billions of dollars in the principal of the debt and nearly $212,000,000 in annual interest. Our expenditures, which for the fiscal year 1921 amounted to $5,535,000,000, will approximate for the current year $3,620,000,000, a reduction of nearly two billions of dollars. Taxation has been reduced from $54.14 per capita to $27.28. This does not take into consideration the revenue act of last March.

While these figures speak for themselves their real import lies in the influence which these reductions have had on the welfare and prosperity of the people. This influence goes far beyond the material reductions I have mentioned. It reaches into every phase of the daily lives of the people. There are more of the necessities, conveniences, and luxuries in the homes of the people in the city and in the open country, because the Government has let the people have more of the money they earn for themselves instead of taking so much from them in taxes.

Since the commencement of the fiscal year 1921 there have been three substantial reductions in taxes. The benefit of this joint executive and legislative effort to reduce Federal expenditure has therefore gone directly to the people. At our meeting one year ago it was my privilege to state that the financial condition of the Government warranted further tax reduction. That forecast has been realized in the revenue act of 1926. The larger tax receipts of March 15 last show clearly that the country anticipated a reduction in tax rates. Individuals who had undistributed profits in securities and investments took their profit under the expected reduction of the surtax rate. It was this same anticipation of tax reduction that prompted investment in productive business of capital which would otherwise have gone into tax-exempt securities. The great increase due in large measure to the unusual prosperity in the year 1925, but the confident expectation of a reduction in rates was an important factor in this revenue increase.

The 1926 act relieved some 2,000,000 people from paying any direct tax and reduced the tax burden of all the other taxpayers. General prosperity is the aggregate of the individual prosperity of our citizens. To permit the people to retain more of their own earnings is to increase their savings and purchasing capacity, which assures prosperity. In 1921 the income tax of a married person with no dependents and a total net income of $3,000 from salary was $60; in 1923 it was $7.50; in 1926 it is nothing. For a single person with an income of $3,000 from salary in 1921 the income tax was $120; in 1923 it was $22.50; while in 1926 it is only $16.85. Miscellaneous war taxes were also materially reduced. These taxes were levied under more than 50 categories, which are now reduced to five. This removes in large measure the so-called nuisance taxes which have been found so irritating to everyone. The revenue from these taxes is reduced by about $275,000,000 and there are no compensating increases as in the case of the income and profits taxes.

BIG DEMAND FOR WORK PERMITS FOR VACATION

Majority of Youngsters Are Employed as Cad-dies

Applications for vacation permits by boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 17 have been exceptionally heavy this year, according to Herb Hellig, vocational school director. Exactly 132 have been granted since the closing of school. Last year at this time only 108 permits have been issued. The total number of permits issued last year was 155 and it is expected that this year's list will reach 200. Boys between the ages of 14 and 17 are allowed to work in factories but not on machinery, in stores and offices, on farms, caddyng and other general work. Boys under 14 may work in stores, but are not allowed to deliver, in offices other than factory offices, and also on farms. Girls who work during vacation are usually employed as nurse maids or in household work. For this type of labor a permit is not required. Most permits issued to girls have been for work in factories.

The majority of permits issued have been to boys and most boys received permits which allow them to caddy. Approximately 70 per cent of the permits issued to boys were for caddies. The balance issued were for various other jobs.

Those applying for permits must bring a birth certificate and a letter from their employer. In case an employer hires a boy or girl without a permit or allows the youth to do any other work than that which he was hired for, the employer is subject to a fine. If a boy or girl is injured while working under these conditions the indemnity which the employer must pay is tripled. During the school year permits are issued only to boys or girls who have passed their sixteenth birthday or who have finished the eighth grade or have spent nine years in school above the kindergarten. These boys and girls also must attend the vocational school part-time.

Anton Eisch and daughter, Ruth of Seymour and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eisch and daughter Marion of Appleton, returned Monday from Phillips where they spent Saturday and Sunday visiting relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Meyer of Ironwood, Mich., spent the week here visiting relatives and friends.

CAN'T COLLECT IF CAR HITS COW

Farmer Free of Liability for Damages to Autoists Striking His Animals

Madison—(P)—A farmer is free of liability for injuries to motorists caused when automobiles strike farm animals on the highway, the Wisconsin supreme court has just held, in the case of Fox versus Koenig. The opinion, written by Justice Owen, settles a question of importance. It answers negatively the question raised whether a farmer is liable if his horse runs loose and unattended on a highway, is killed in a collision with an automobile, and because of the collision, occupants of the car are injured.

The farmer "is liable only for the damages resulting from the natural propensities of his animals," Justice Owen declared, "and from such peculiar propensities of individual animals as have come to his attention. The occurrence was certainly a most unusual one, and cannot be attributed to the natural propensities of the horse. There is no suggestion that the horse was possessed of a capricious disposition, by reason of which an occurrence such as this should have been anticipated."

47 BOYS SIGNED TO ATTEND "Y" CAMP

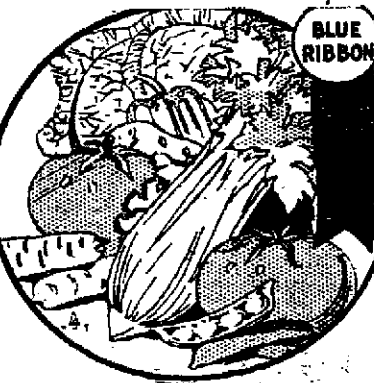

Forty-seven Appleton boys had signed for the boys' division camp at Onaway Island, Waumuck, from July 1 to 15, up to Tuesday morning, according to records of John W. Pugh boys' work secretary, who is in charge of the camp. Mr. Pugh said he expected 60 boys to have their applications in by Saturday evening. Most of the boys have signed for two 1-week periods. The camp has a capacity of 60.

Forty-two boys were signed at the report issued last week. The new campers are John Wolter, Russell Collins, Sylvester Welles, Carl Everson and Nathan Spator.

PLASTERERS FINISH WORK AT SENIOR H. S.

Plasterers at the high school finished repair work there last week and painters started work immediately and will finish about the end of this week. Carpenters completed repairs on the doors and windows of the school and Monday replaced tracks on the stairs. Janitors were at work this week washing desks and tables and doing other odd jobs about the building. Repairs will be finished in about three weeks, according to H. H. Heblie, principle.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Lang of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lang, Ray Lang, Miss Dorothy Baker and Mr. and Mrs. C. Schumacher spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lang.

THE REGENTS ACCEPT A GIFT
The University of Wisconsin regents have accepted $80,000 for agricultural and engineering research, a gift of the Wisconsin Manufacturers association. The board has after carefully considering the matter decided the gift was not within the rule prohibiting the acceptance of benefactions from "interests." The gift of the manufacturers was, of course, to the university and not to the board of regents. But the regents in considering it were dealing with manufacturers.

In the minds of the regents who support the fanatical ruling against gifts from the wealthy, the donors of this $80,000 are exploiters and profiteers. They are a portion of the element which these reformers are trying to punish. They are the very class the political power which appointed the regents decries against and legislates against. The regents are their tools or collaborators. Whether the gift is technically within the privilege of the board to accept or not is immaterial; the practical effect is the thing, and it is the same whether the gift was made by the manufacturers of Wisconsin or by Mr. Rockefeller, the Morgans or anyone else. If the Rockefeller made their money dishonestly then the manufacturers of Wisconsin and all other persons of affluence did the same. In fact, it is the theory of our super-progressives that anyone possessed of very much money got it in a questionable manner and is not entitled to it.

Some of the men who have given this splendid gift to the university are those who still own mills in the state, but who have been driven from it in person by oppressive and discriminating tax legislation. The manufacturers have done a very worthy and helpful thing for the university. It is about as unselfish and patriotic an act as could come from an organization of this kind. As for the regents, they have swallowed their principles and are grabbing the cash with both hands, an incident which proves that the original ruling was conceived as a noise-making device to get votes. The regents are willing to forget it to get money, but they will impose it whenever they can make political capital out of it. They are a great body of educational administrators!

JUSTIFIABLE REPRISAL
Germany held an election Monday to determine whether it would confiscate the property of royalty and dispossess it of hundreds of millions of dollars worth of castles and estates. The terms of the referendum required that a majority of the approximately 39,000,000 registered voters be cast for the proposal in order to make it effective.
The campaign over this legislation was one of the most bitter in German history. The Socialists and communists supported the measure and the nationalists and royalists opposed it. President Von Hindenburg threatened to resign if the act were ratified. The results show that less than 15,000,000 votes were cast for the proposition, while a little more than half a million votes were cast against it. It is said that the negative vote had no relation to the question, since only 55 per cent of those eligible voted, and there was a concerted movement on the part of the opponents to remain away from the polls.
Whether the 15,000,000 who voted to confiscate the property of the former Kaiser and princes represented the full strength of those committed to confiscation is to be doubted. All of the stay-at-homes could not possibly be confined to the opposition. We should not be surprised if an actual majority of the German people favored dispossessing the former royalty. The right to take this extraordinary step is undoubtedly a sound prerogative of the people. We do not think the status of property in general was involved. Nor would we say that it was a communistic move. The rightful ownership of royalty to the vast lands and property it holds is debatable. Much of it was acquired in ways that could not be defended according to present day standards. Furthermore, there was the question as to whether royalty had been of any good to Germany or whether it was an injury and a burden. Reprisals for betrayal of trust under such circumstances are often justified.

We do not think the 15,000,000 persons who voted for confiscation were bolsheviks or communists, as the nationalists charge them with being. Millions of the conservative class were undoubtedly represented in the affirmative ballot, defending their vote on the ground that it was unjust to remain to confirm these former political and social leeches in splendor while the people generally are in abject poverty. A proper procedure would be to award royalty and its ramifications an adequate amount for their future support, reasonably consistent with their way of living, and to take away from them the lands for which they have no real use and restore them to the people who so greatly need them. This would be confiscation with partial compensation.

TOO MANY LAWS
Governor Blaine in addressing the convention of Eagles at Plymouth made it an occasion to protest against the multiplicity of laws being put upon the statute books of Wisconsin, of other states and the federal government. It was a forceful and timely criticism. We have come to the point in the development of our social and economic life where we are resorting to legislation to cure every known or suspected evil. Not only do we try to make men good by statute, but we try to enforce moral and ethical standards in business by the same means. The result is that our personal, social and business conduct is so hedged about by hundreds, even thousands, of laws, that we have become a nation of daily law-breakers. Many of these violations are due to ignorance of regulations imposed by reformers and whatnot, while many of them are deliberate. Where we think a law is unreasonable or objectionable, we do not hesitate to transgress it.

The real fact is, to quote the governor, "that Americans are as law-abiding as any race or people, but they are hog-tied by more sins and crimes created by law than any other people. The tendency is to take responsibility off the individual and put it upon society; to destroy parental responsibility and place the responsibility upon the policeman. The tendency is to disregard humanity as anything but a part of a machine, to be fitted and notched into straight jackets and rules and regulations, productive of weak moral fiber and promoting the loss of liberty."

This is a perfectly accurate indictment of our reckless and unrestrained resort to law to do for society and the individual what they must do for themselves if they are to survive as free moral agents and as a christian people. The greatest mistake our reformers have made is the conception that law and police regulation can cure those evils and those errors in humanity that come from its inherent weaknesses—that spring, so to speak, from man's biblical fall. No restraint, no outward display of virtue that is grudgingly yielded to statutory regulation is worth a continental. And all of this plethora of law has had exactly the effect the governor describes, namely that it has weakened home and parental responsibility and has undermined and weakened American character. Character, honesty, morality, come from two sources only, and that is from education and self. The environment and teachings of the home are the primary forces in education. If these fail, or are lacking, law does no good. Law does no good in any event. On the contrary, it does a positive harm since it is a standing challenge to men of weak character and warped training to defy it because it interferes with a code that they have been brought up to accept.
It is time America commenced to unwind itself and take off the legal tape that seeks to make it a mummy and that actually makes it "devil."

HOW CIRCULATION IS CONTROLLED
It may not seem remarkable to folk who lay things to "nerves" but it does seem remarkable to me, that the existence of the vasomotor nervous system was discovered only 75 years ago. It was system in 1851 that a physiologist named Claude Bernard observed that when the sympathetic nerve in the neck of a rabbit was cut the blood vessels of the ear on the same side became much dilated. Bernard and other physiologists afterward demonstrated that the application of electricity to the severed end of the nerve caused blanching of the impulses which cause contraction or constriction of the caliber of the smaller arteries. These fibers are called vasomotor nerves. The same great physiologist subsequently demonstrated the existence of a second set of vasomotor fibers which, when stimulated, cause dilation of the little arteries to which they are connected. Thus there are two antagonistic sets of vasomotor nerves—the vasoconstrictors and the vasodilators.

Before we say another word let's get out of our heads the mistaken notion that the condition commonly called "nervousness," "nerves," "nervous tension," or "nervous strain" has any bearing whatever on the function of the vasomotor fibers. With that confusing and misleading notion out of the way, we may the more readily comprehend that the vasomotor function has considerable influence upon blood pressure.
A reader who shows evidence of a good education asks me what vasomotor is, and what causes it. This query reminds me once more of the desirability of a certain reform in education. Human science is not a nasty thing at all. It is high time that we cut out some of the stuff and piffle and introduce into grammar and high school in a dignified way the study of human biology, physiology, anatomy, hygiene, not the farce we make of these subjects in the schools at present.

Stimulation of the skin surface, say by a cold shower or tub bath or by an air bath (exposure of the skin to the cold air) brings about a flush. This is a reflex vasomotor action—that is, the message or nerve impulse from the cold at the surface is conveyed through sensory nerves to a nerve center in the medulla and reflected to the surface arterioles as a vasoconstrictor impulse, which causes these little arteries to contract or narrow, and that increases the pressure of the blood in them. The surface circulation is thus increased.

It is hard to grow drowsiness. These are vasomotor reflex actions. Constriction of the surface arterioles (not capillaries, for the capillary vessels have no vasomotor nerves) tends to increase the circulation in the brain and probably the cerebral activity. Brains persons are more subject to cold feet, cold hands and pale surface generally; lackwits or dumbbells are more likely to have warm, rosy skin.

A full meal favors sleep. It is natural that deductions are drawn from excesses in eating, such as late hours, alcoholic indulgence, coffee stimulation, tobacco and other excitements. An honest lunch or meal at bedtime ordinarily favors sound sleep and good digestion and need be avoided only by the lazy and the overworked.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Lumbago
I have been a regular reader and follower of your department for 10 years and I believe you have never touched upon a subject which has great interest for some of old stagers, namely, lumbago. I have had three or four attacks and am contending with a slight attack now. (A. A. P.)

Answer—Well, I can contribute just a word to the symposium conducted by the nostrum people. They chorus "It's your kidneys." I assure you it is not your kidneys. Lumbago is one type of muscular rheumatism, whatever that may be. In many instances of lumbago, the doctor discloses that there is nothing wrong in or with the muscles, but rather a sprain or strain of a joint between the base of the spine and the wing of the hip bone. But come again, next time, with a stamped addressed envelope, and I'll tell you all about this and other types of so called muscular rheumatism in a little monograph on the subject.

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mrs. Annie Kwinski of 526 1st Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., writes as follows: "I was so weak and run-down that I was not able to do my housework. I saw the name Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper and said to my husband, 'I will try that medicine and see if it will help me.' She says she took six bottles and is feeling much better."

Mrs. Mattie Adams, who lives in Downing Street, Brewton, Ala., writes as follows: "A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and since taking it I feel like a different woman."

With her children grown up, the middle-aged woman finds time to do the things she never had time to do before—read the new books, see the new plays, enjoy her grandchildren, take an active part in church and civic affairs. Far from being pushed aside by the younger set, she finds a full, rich life of her own. That is, if her health is good.

Thousands of women past fifty, say they owe their health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Small silver gift of practical use, everlasting wear and handsome designing are best selected from our comprehensive showing.

MEDINA FARMER'S CAR WRECKED IN CRASH

Linn Root, 30, a farmer living near Medina, suffered slight injuries and his automobile was wrecked when he collided with another machine Monday afternoon on highway 18, opposite the Outagamie co. asylum.

Mr. Root was driving his automobile west on highway 18 while the other machine was traveling east. The two cars locked rear wheels. The Root car swerved around and then tipped over near the edge of the road. Root was taken to St. Elizabeth hospital here by an ambulance, but left almost immediately. His injuries consisted of cuts on his forehead, lip and left hand. The automobile stopped, according to report, but the name of the driver was not learned.

SEEK NEW SYSTEM FOR FINDING GAME UMPIRES

Managers of the six ball teams in the City Twilight Softball league, sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. will meet at the association building Wednesday evening to discuss the question of "hiring" an umpire for league games. The teams have had many disputes because of umpires chosen at the grounds at the last minute, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director of the association. It is proposed to obtain the services of a man, agreeable to all managers, to umpire every league game. The two clubs playing will "chip in" to pay him a small salary each time. He will be backed by the authority of the board of managers on his decisions and will have the authority to "bench" players if they protest too vigorously, the managers said.

JEWELER APPLIES FOR BANKRUPT DISCHARGE

Milwaukee. The hearing will be at 10 o'clock on the morning of July 2. Any creditor may appear at the hearing to show cause why a discharge should not be granted.

The stock and fixtures of the Leman store at 112 N. Oneida-st. were purchased by Attorney J. P. Frank acting for Mrs. Leman, at the trustee sale. The concern was reorganized and is again operating a jewelry store.

In 5 distinct ways, this unique preparation excels over all others. You'll note them all first time you use it. It has won millions of men from old-time preparations. Its success is a national sensation. Men are literally flocking to its use.

- 1—It multiplies itself in lather 250 times.

- 3—The lather maintains its creamy fullness for ten minutes on the face.

Special to Post-Crescent

New London—Monday was a big day in local police court when about fifty of the city's boys were fined $1 and costs amounting to $3.50 for shooting fireworks. Local dealers have gorgeous displays of fireworks in their windows and last Saturday the boys stocked up with baby explosives. They gathered on North Water-st Saturday night and gave an imitation of Russia during one of its countless revolutions. One of them stood a block away and ruefully viewed the war and on Monday the real fun started. Just about every boy that shot fireworks was issued a formal and legal document, which with all its wherefores and whereases' balled down was an invitation to appear before Justice Miller and bring some "E. H. Turbinum Unum" along. All did.

The scenes in the courtroom were many and varied. One fellow was asked "How many did you shoot?" He answered, "Just a few little ones, about so long," indicating with his fingers the length of the fireworks at about half an inch. $4.50" said the court. He rolled out a $5 bill, in change, tossed it back to the court "for some good cigars," which Chief of Police Andrew Lueck hurried out to purchase before the next group of fireworks shooters were due to appear. All day long they kept coming with the $4.50, and when they quit they left enough cash behind to start a bank.

Coolidge Urges U. S. To Pay Debt

ated directly as well as indirectly by the repeal of that tax based upon the value of the capital stock of the corporation. Many concerns with not one dollar of profit were obliged to pay a large tax. This was unfair, as the ability of a corporation to pay depends upon its profits. Fully 40 per cent of the corporations making income-tax returns have no profits or taxable incomes, but under the old law they were obliged to pay.

What the complete result of the 1926 tax law will be is still a matter of estimate. The correctness of the theory that reduction of tax rates economically applied will stimulate business, and thereby increase taxable revenue, is being demonstrated. To what point further reduction may be carried can not be stated until the new law has had time to operate. The opportunity to become fully efficient and experience has shown what revenue it will produce.

The question is on the lips of many as to whether there is prospect of another tax reduction in the near future. I think the answer to this question should be delayed until we know definitely the revenue-producing ability of the present revenue act. The estimate to-day is that we will close the current fiscal year with a surplus of about $350,000,000. This can not be safely considered as an indication of what revenue the present law will give. Our revenue this year from income and profits tax includes about $350,000,000 of back taxes, most of which accrued in years prior to 1926. We do not anticipate such accrual of back taxes in the future. Rather will they materially diminish and reach an estimated total of only about $100,000,000 in 1928.

It would be unfortunate to raise hopes of further tax relief until we are sure that the state of our finances justifies it. There is no such surety to-day. Business was quick to anticipate the last tax reduction. It was justified in so doing. To raise such hopes at this time might be to encourage business to anticipate again, as it did in 1925, further tax reduction. This might have a detrimental effect upon the stabilization of the country under the present tax law.

You have your appropriations for the next fiscal year. I have previously stated our effort must be not to increase expenditures over what they will be for the current year. Rather do the latest estimates for next year indicate that it may be possible to spend less than in 1925. The survey which has been made of our requirements indicates the possibility of reaching a minimum of $3,600,000,000 in our expenditures next year. This will be a saving. For the coming fiscal year the estimates indicate that we will have a margin of $185,000,000 of revenues over expenditures if the latter do not exceed the figure I have stated. A surplus of only $185,000,000 in a business involving an annual expenditure in excess of three and one-half billions of dollars is far from being a satisfactory margin. This margin can be easily dissipated by a falling off of our anticipated income. The revenue estimate is necessarily based on the present prosperous condition of the country. Any change unfavorable to this condition would be reflected in lessened income. But I look to you to see that the margin is not threatened by any increase in our estimated expenditures. Further expansion of the business of Government which would add to our cost should await a better estimate of our future income.

We are approaching the time for consideration of the estimates of appropriations for the fiscal year 1928. I have expressed to the Director of the Budget the hope that these estimates can be kept within a limit of $3,200,000,000 exclusive of the Postal Service and tax refund. It may become imperative before the Budget is finally completed substantially to reduce that figure. This will depend entirely upon our revenue outlook for 1928, concerning which we will have better information a few months hence. I say to you frankly that the outlook to-day is not encouraging. We know our public debt and other fixed charges for that year.

A preliminary but very exhaustive estimate of our other requirements compared with an estimate of the expected revenue for that year indicates a surplus of only $20,000,000 which is negligible and may easily be converted into a deficit. This is the dark side of the picture, but it lends weight to the views I have previously expressed with regard to further tax reduction. It also emphasizes the need for the utmost care in the scrutiny of your 1928 budget. If I have occasionally had to give warning as to the possibility of a deficit, it has served to our advantage. When we face the future too sanguine as to available funds, we court disaster if the prophecy be erroneous. We face no such disaster if we err on the other side and view with conservative eye our financial outlook.

I have spoken to you often on the subject of personnel. Our salary and wage expenditure is the most costly single item of the Budget. While the Post Office Department has necessarily had to increase its personnel with its growth of business we have been decreasing personnel elsewhere. It is very easy to have too many people on the pay roll. The reductions which have been made in personnel show no detrimental effect upon our results. Rather has it seemed to improve the efficiency of the service. I am encouraged in the thought that we can have further reduction of personnel without discharging a single person, by the simple device of not filling all the vacancies that occur. This would not operate in the summary separation of anyone from the Federal service. General Lord will outline to you a plan to carry this into effect, which has my approval. No doubt what has been accomplished by the Federal Government has served as an inspiration to some local political units in reducing their governmental cost, but it is not disclosed by the aggregate for all of them. From 1921 to 1925 the Federal Government reduced expenditures more than two billions of dollars. The same period showed an increase of more than four billions of dollars in State, county, municipal, and other governmental expenditures. In 1921 when the cost of all government in this country was approximately nine and one-half billions of dollars, Federal expenditure consisted nearly 60 per cent of the total. In 1925 the cost of all government increased to more than eleven and a half billions, of which only 27 per cent is represented by Federal expenditure.

The answer to this reduction of 33 per cent in the Federal share of all governmental costs is not that we are performing less service for all people or neglecting our physical plant. The real answer is that we have so far put our house in order to decrease our demands upon the people and to give them more efficient government at less cost. The local governments like the Federal Government have no money which they do not take from the people. To meet an increase of more than one billion dollars a year for four years in the expenditures by the States and their political subdivisions there must have been a corresponding increase in levies upon the people or in bonded indebtedness.

There is cause for concern in this situation. It is fraught with grave consequences to the public welfare. The Federal Government has decreased its cost by practicing the homey virtue of thrift. This has not been an easy task. It has required cooperative effort and sacrifice in every direction. If the interest of the people demanded this action on the part of the Federal Government, surely they would seem to demand similar action with regard to the income tax. In these other local governmental costs. This suggestion is not meant as a criticism of the officers of our local government. It is rather a statement of fact. It shows how hard it is in these times to reduce the cost, taxes, and debts of governments. But it can be done if the people will cooperate. Unless they do, however, special interests will continue to overwhelm the legislative bodies for more expenses and more taxes. The limit is close at hand when further expansion in the cost of government will bring the danger of stagnation and financial depression.

We are testing out in this country the success of self-government. We require no property qualification for voters. Students of history have claimed that under such a system it has too often been found that democratic institutions tend to confiscate property to such an extent that economic progress becomes impossible. That has not been our experience in part because the Constitution protects us from legislation of that nature. But this is the test which America must meet and meet constantly, and unless it is met successfully the strength, progress and prosperity of our country will cease. You will readily see, therefore, the vast and far-reaching importance of your efforts and cooperation in the policy of constructive economy.

All of this effort would not be worth while unless it had an ultimate purpose above and beyond the mere saving of money. We ought to use money as we use any other utility to advance the welfare of the human race. Money is not endowed with any sacred quality. Man was not made for money, but money was made for man. It has become absolutely necessary in these days of dense population and under an advancing system of cooperation by society, for what was once a purely private function to take on more and more the character of a public function. It must then, carried on out of the public treasury. For that purpose money must be provided. Its expenditure is required. But we must have a wise expenditure.

well balanced and within the means of the people.

That is constructive economy. It does not partake of a mean and selfish nature; it is not narrow and selfish, but rather broad, generous and ennobling, undertaking to deal justly with the whole situation by raising such revenues as the people can fairly bear to meet such expenditures as are fairly required. The results are systems to provide transportation and communication, improved sanitation, public order, the administration of justice, necessary legislation, advancing educational facilities and the development of the artistic and spiritual side of life. These provide an evenly balanced basis for the support of an enlightened civilization. The result is America, into the making of that result and its continued success your patriotic service and devotion is a contributing factor of enormous importance.

The office of Director of the Budget has been established in order to provide an advisory staff to the President, the Congress, and the various departments in their efforts to meet these requirements. At its head is General Lord. The law has clothed him with some authority, but far greater authority is derived from the character of the man. His ability and integrity inspire confidence. He has laid out plans for constructive economy. When I say that his plans have not only been carried out but actually improved upon in Congress under the leadership of Representative Madden and Senator Warren, I mean to extend very high praise to those two seasoned legislators. These three men are representative of the spirit which has made our budget system a success. In order that we may profit by his counsel and encouragement, I present to you again the Director of the Bureau of the Budget General Lord.

LEMON JUICE BEST TO WHITEN SKIN

The only harmless way to bleach the skin white is to mix the juice of two lemons with three ounces of Orchard White, which any drugstore will supply for a few cents. Shake well in a bottle and you will have a whole quart of the most wonderful skin whitener, softener and beautifier.

Massage this sweet, fragrant lemon bleach into the face, neck, arms and hands. It can not irritate. Famous stage beauties use it to bring that clear, youthful skin and rosy-white complexion; also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach. You must mix this remarkable lotion yourself. It can not be bought ready to use because it acts best immediately after it is prepared.

"Silence" which Julian directed and which will be on view at the Fischer's Appleton Theatre next Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. They point to a great story, and an equally great cast as a basis for their glowing predictions for the success of Beulah Marie Dix's screen version of Max Marcell's very successful stage play. Julian, it is said, has already called "Silence" his greatest picture, and it's no secret, that he considers his cast one of the finest ever assembled for a single production. With H. B. Warner in the lead, a role he created or the stage, the supporting cast features Vera Reynolds, Raymond, Halton, Rockcliffe Fellows, Jack Mulhall and Virginia Pearson. Shown in conjunction with vaudeville and usual comedies.

A LUBITSCH TRIUMPH
Like the art of old who specialized in difficult pieces of work until he became famous for accomplishing things in his line which others hesitated to attempt, Ernst Lubitsch has triumphed with his production of "Lady Windermere's Fan" for Warner Bros. This remarkable screen version of the brilliant Oscar Wilde play opened yesterday at the Elite theater, and marks another Lubitsch success.

It is also a triumph for the sparkling cast which had been carefully selected for this photoplay, and decidedly an Irene Rich triumph. Miss Rich never was more beautiful, and certainly has never given a performance that equals her Mrs. Elynne in charm, power and brilliance. She is every inch the sophisticated character whom men adore and women envy with a polite and subtle manner.

which is stamped with the Lubitsch touch. The remainder of the cast is also strikingly effective: May McAvoy as lovely Lady Windermere, Bert Lytell as Lord Windermere, Ronald Colman (by arrangement with Samuel Goldwyn) as Lord Darlington, and Edward Martindel as Lord Augustus. Helen Dunbar, Carrie Daumery and Billie Bennett play three duchesses. Thanks to the adaptation of Julien Josephson, the original story has been deftly transferred to the screen. "KENTUCKY PRIDE"
"Kentucky Pride," one of the most entertaining pictures of the season at the New Bijou today and Wednesday. That this attraction deserves a maximum of prosperity is conceded by all who see it, and the Manager is to be congratulated on booking it at this time. "Kentucky Pride" has to do with the romantic and tragic life of a famous race-horse called Virginia's Future. Falling in her own great race, due to an accident in which she fractured her leg, this equine heroine lives to see her daughter, Confederacy, retrieve her master's fortunes and her own reputation. But at the time of seeing this happy turn of events, this same Virginia's Future is at the low ebb of her fortunes, for she has degenerated into a common truck horse. Therein lies much of the tragic such as tugs at the heart-strings.

So replete with interesting features and compelling thrills is this photodrama that it is impossible to enumerate them all in a limited space. However, it is certain that the spectacle of seeing two really great horse races in one play is an unusual treat, while it is exceedingly novel to be able to see such famous race horses as Man o' War, Negofol, Morvich, Fair Play and The Finn actually playing the principal equine roles in a story centered on life in the realm of thoroughbred champions of the turf.

In addition to all this there are exceptionally entertaining performances offered by such popular stars as Henry B. Walthall, J. Farrell MacDonald and Gertrude Astor.

Unvarying Comfort At 50 Above— or 20 Below!

To you as a home-owner, this is the meaning of Kleen-Heet's recognized engineering superiority:

You decide you want the house kept at 70, let us say. You set the thermostat. Then hour after hour, day after day, month after month, 70 is the temperature you have. Not 65 now, and again 75—but 70! Whether, outside, it is below zero or so mild that it is only necessary to "take the chill off the house."

Think what that means, not only to comfort, but to health!

This amazing uniformity results from the instant efficiency of the Kleen-Heet burner. The moment Kleen-Heet is called into action, it is fully responsive. So, naturally, it gives more efficient heating—and greater fuel economy, as well.

As evidenced by Kleen-Heet's remarkable record of performance—in homes of every size—through more than six years.

RECORD CROWD ATTENDS JUVENILE GRANGE PICNIC

1,500 PERSONS
HEAR SPEAKERS
LAUD FARM LIFE

Children Have More Opportunities on Farm Than in Cities, They Are Told

One of the largest crowds in history attended the thirty second annual picnic of the juvenile branch of the South Greenville Grange which was held Saturday in the Charles Haase grove, near Greenville. It is estimated that the crowd exceeded those of 1924 and 1925, and the number present was probably in the neighborhood of 1,500 persons.

Unlimited opportunities from both the social and financial viewpoints are open to children who live on farms, according to George H. Schaefer, master of the Grange who delivered the opening address. In addition to the pleasures of farm life they now have most of the advantages of the city for the automobile and good roads, he pointed out, make frequent trips to the city a matter of course.

Mr. Schaefer stressed the value of the children's picnic in giving the young folks a chance to appear before the public and giving them confidence in themselves. Such a gathering also gives children a much needed opportunity to "rub elbows" with persons whom they would otherwise seldom meet.

COOPERATION NEEDED
J. Glover, editor of Hoard's Dairyman, stated in his address that the farmer's condition depends primarily upon himself and upon the effects he makes to work out of his problems with his fellow farmers. Cooperation and not legislation, Mr. Glover declared, will ultimately solve the problems of the farmer. Legislation might help in certain instances, he pointed out, but it cannot be the direct means of solution because it cannot govern the law of supply and demand.

Work of the legislative committee of the national Grange was lauded by Mr. Glover. Its advice at Washington and its activity in the farmer's interest has been almost invaluable, he said. He especially praised C. P. Atkeson, chairman of the committee and former dean of the West Virginia Agricultural college, for his tireless efforts on behalf of rural America.

A strong plea for harmony among various farm organizations in working toward a common end was voiced by Herman Hyde, state master of the Grange, who urged the necessity of forgetting jealousies between associations and individuals for the general good of the farmer.

Little discouragements should not deter either the individual or the organization in their efforts to promote better farm conditions, Mr. Hyde stated. He outlined the work of the Grange and praised its consistent efforts to launch a new era in farming. Only the organized farmer can hope to solve the problems of agriculture and of the individual, he declared.

The entire program was arranged by the juvenile branch of the Grange under the direction of Mrs. C. A. Haase, matron, town of Menasha, and Mrs. Alfred Anderson, Grange, lecturer of the town of Clayton, both of Winnebago co. The children's program consisted of songs, recitations, drills, etc., and began after the opening address by Mr. Schaefer. A grand march from the hall to the picnic grounds by the children and the Grange at 10 o'clock Saturday morning opened the annual affair.

Many old settlers from different parts of Wisconsin and other states yearly make it a point to be at the picnic and renew old acquaintances and friendships, and this year was no exception. Beside the South Greenville Grange, chapters from Winnebago, Brown and Langlade cos were largely represented.

RELEASE OVER 1,000 SPARROWS AT U. W.

County Shipping Society
Complete At Meeting Here

Working plans of the newly organized Outagamie-co Shipping association, including the by-laws and constitution, were completed at Saturday's meeting of the various county livestock shipping associations. The plans will be submitted to the local associations for their approval and adoption.

Permanent delegates to the central organization will be elected by each local after it has approved the county organization and has voted to become a member. The next meeting of the Outagamie-co Shipping association will be held during the afternoon of the first Saturday in August. Representatives of the individual shipping associations voted to establish the county unit at their annual meeting here June 5. The object of the organization, as expressed in the constitution is "to advertise surplus dairy stock, promote sales, accommodate cattle buyers through the county association cooperating with local shippers' associations and breeders' association, and to work for closer cooperation between shipping associations."

No report was made at the Saturday meeting by the committee which was appointed June 5 to investigate Chicago and Milwaukee calf market prices. It is expected that the committee will give its report at the August meeting.

IMPORTS BELTED CATTLE

Mrs. Edna Gingrich, Duncan, Ill., imported a herd of Dutch Belted cattle from Holland because of the unusual appearance of these animals. In Europe they are known as "lakenveders" which means "wrapped around with a sheet." The white belt is in marked contrast to the black of the remaining portions of the body.

Wisconsin Potato Growers
Enjoy Prosperous Season

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin potato growers have just closed their most prosperous season in many years. B. B. Jones, specialist of the state department of markets, asserts.

The high prices brought approximately twenty million dollars in cash to the Wisconsin growers, he said, enabling them to pay off mortgages and various debts, buy furniture, automobiles and implements, and improve farm buildings.

"This year Wisconsin's shipments will amount to about 18,000 carloads, a big percentage of which went to Chicago," he stated. "One of the outstanding features was the consistently higher price which Wisconsin potatoes brought as compared with the price received by its main competitor. This increase in price which amounted to a total of nearly one million dollars for the seasons crop was attained through the reputation Wisconsin has built up by shipping graded and inspected stock, thus grading and inspection work being an important activity of the department of Markets."

"While no estimate is made of this year's plantings it is generally reported that the high prices of the past year have induced Wisconsin farmers to greatly increase their plantings this spring and with good growing conditions prevailing a much larger crop is expected this fall."

Figures given out by Jones show that at the opening of the season last fall farmers were paid around $1.50 cwt as compared with 50c the previous year. As the season advanced the market improved and a top price of $5 per hundred pounds was paid later in the winter.

"Some farmers misjudged the market as is brought out in the case of a farmer located in the central part of the state," he said. "This farmer did not sell his crop on the five dollar market figuring it would go still higher. The market started a gradual decline this spring and as he sells his crop now at the close of the season he will have to take a price about two thousand dollars less than he could have sold it for in the winter."

POP CORN STILL IS MYSTERY TO SCIENTIST

Pop corn is still a mystery. Not even the scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture can definitely say what it is that makes corn pop. The general belief is that the sudden expansion of moisture within the kernel causes the explosion called popping.

ELECTRICITY WILL BE COMMON AS PHONE

Rural electric lines will eventually become almost as extensive as the telephone, according to F. W. Duffee of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Farmers are becoming more anxious lately for the service to be extended to their farms.

RURAL CARRIERS PLAN PICNIC AT SHIOCTON

EUROPEAN CORN BORER SWEEPING TOWARD STATE

Crop Menace Coming This Way at Rate of 20 Miles a Year

The European corn borer, a real menace to corn production, is sweeping toward Wisconsin at the rate of 20 miles a year from the neighborhood of Lake Erie with the certainty that it is merely a matter of time before Badger corn raisers will be forced to contend with the pest, according to S. B. Fracker, state entomologist.

Alarm over the gradual spread of the corn borer menace was the cause of the conference held in Chicago recently at which measures to combat the plague were discussed.

It was concluded at this conference that to date the most effective weapon is mechanical control with a prospect that corn harvesting machinery will be revolutionized to fight the ravages of the worms.

The corn borer came into the United States from Canada and is now infesting a belt about Lake Erie. The spread of the worm is accomplished mainly by having the moths blown about in the wind to adjoining territory. It is estimated by Mr. Fracker that the moths are blown a distance of about 20 miles a year and that the pests are gradually on their way to Wisconsin corn fields.

The borers work their way along the inside of corn stalks and corn cobs, often destroying entire fields. The chief means of combatting them under consideration now is to produce machines which will cut corn to within an inch of the ground or lower, as the worms remain over winter in

FARMERS GET SMALL PROFIT IN ILLINOIS

Urbana, Ill.—A survey of 225 farms conducted by the University of Illinois showed an annual profit of 3.21 per cent on the total investment, after deducting all expenses for operating the farms and $720 for the farmer's own labor.

In addition to the wages allowed the farmer for his own labor, these farms furnished him produce and a home.

the corn stubbles, supplying new pests for the next season. Attachments have already been perfected for harvesting corn that even cuts the corn below the surface of the ground and an entire new type of corn harvesting machinery is expected to be developed because of the ravages of the worms. Practically all farm machinery manufacturers were represented at the recent meeting in Chicago.

"There are no corn borers as yet in Wisconsin or its neighboring states but with the area infested gradually increasing in extent the moths are expected to be blown further and further from year to year until they pass south of Lake Michigan and then into Wisconsin."

The fact that much of the corn stalks raised in Wisconsin goes into silos is expected to aid in the fight on the pests in this state.

Although it is considered certain that Wisconsin cannot keep the corn borer outside of its borders, efforts are being made to prevent its exportation before its normal time. Close watch is being kept to prevent the bringing into the state of infected corn or stalks from the quarantined area.

PROVE VALUE OF LIME TO ALFALFA MEN OF COUNTY

Demonstration at Cuff Farm Proves Wood Ashes Make Good Fertilizer

About seventy-five farmers of Outagamie and Waupaca cos attended the lime demonstrations which were held Sunday at the farms of George Cuff, four miles south of New London; John Kelley, three miles south of New London; and O. P. Cuff, one mile east of the Kelley farm. The demonstrations were arranged by Robert Amundson, county agent.

Visitors were convinced of the value of lime when two small plots of alfalfa of equal size, the first treated with wood ashes and the second without treatment, were measured off on the O. P. Cuff farm. The first plot produced 68 pounds of hay, while the second yielded only 10 pounds. Both potash and lime are supplied by application of wood ashes, according to Mr. Cuff. An average of four or five times as much alfalfa is grown on the Cuff farm where wood ashes have been applied, compared to the plots where no application was made, Mr. Amundson estimates.

Advantages of alfalfa on blow sand were seen by the visitors at the Kelley farm. The stand is now two years old, and has done much to remove a troublesome problem, by increasing fertility of the land and at the same time lessening the danger of wind action in carrying away the light soil.

Most of the farmers present are owners of farms containing large plots of light sandy soil, and all are impressed with the startling results shown by lime treatment, as brought out in the demonstrations.

Stems of the young plants are eaten by the insects, thus entirely destroying each plant attacked. The same class of maggots have been active in radish beds throughout the county.

Some relief has been found by many farmers by a solution of one ounce of corrosive sublimate in seven gallons of water, with the mixture poured along the rows of young plants, Mr. Amundson declared. A few farmers are dipping their young cabbage plants in the solution before setting them out in the fields. This treatment is not entirely effective in destroying the maggots, but it is the best now available, the former method being preferable.

WOMAN AUTOIST HURT WHEN TREE FALLS ON CAR

Clintonville Woman Critically
Injured in Strange Accident

Mrs. Benjamin Sweeney, Clintonville, was critically injured at about 4:30 Monday afternoon when part of a large elm tree, about two miles south of Clintonville near Curve Inn, fell on an automobile coupe she was driving home from Appleton.

The tree was split lengthwise from one of the large lower crotches to its base, one half remaining upright, and the other falling across the concrete pavement and striking the Sweeney automobile. Mrs. Sweeney was cut from temple to temple across the forehead, and also across the top of the scalp, but her skull was not fractured, according to the physician in charge. The cords of two fingers of her left hand were severed by flying glass. Miss Mildred Lyons, a sister of Mrs. Sweeney, also in the car, was cut about the head and one arm.

After the top of the coupe was crushed by the tree the machine continued on its way for seven or eight rods, finally striking a concrete culvert and veering off into a ditch at the roadside, but remained upright.

Mrs. Sweeney, unconscious, was rushed with her sister to Clintonville where both women were placed under the care of a physician.

Both bumpers were torn from the automobile, the radiator was badly smashed and a number of spokes were broken from the wheels, and the top was completely demolished.

Traces of decay in the tree were evident for some time and it is reported that the elm started to split long before the accident. The tree was about 18 inches in diameter.

200 APPLETON PEOPLE AT CHURCH CONGRESS

More than 200 Appleton people are either in Chicago at present or will be by Thursday to attend the "Evangelical Congress." It was estimated that more than 1,500 Catholics from the Fox river valley will attend the Congress.

Among those who left Tuesday for Chicago are Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Garvey, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Driscoll, Peter Dohr, Joseph Dohr, Henry Tillman, Leo Toonen and Wenzel Fisher. A group of men left by auto Tuesday morning to attend the Congress. They were Max Bauer, Morris Heinritz, Louis Schweitzer, Henry Rossmelst and Robert Scholl.

AUTOIST NEARLY LOSES HEAD AS BUS HITS DOOR

Earl Meltz, 21, 739, E. Alton-st., came mightily near losing his head Tuesday morning. He was driving west on E. College-ave when, thinking he had a flat tire, he stopped his automobile at the curb in front of the All Saints church, between Drew-st and Park-ave. He opened the right door of his car and put his head out to "have a look." Just then a bus, owned by the Carl Feotter Towing Co., also going west, brushed against the door, causing it to close on Meltz's head. Meltz suffered a comparatively slight bruise on the back of his head.

HUGE STOCK IN HARDWARE STORE

From 40,000 to 60,000 Articles on Shelves, Nixon Tells Y's Mens Club

The Hardware Business was the subject of a talk by George Nixon of the Schlafers Hardware Co. Monday evening at the regular meeting of the Y's Mens' club at the Y. M. C. A. Mr. Nixon stressed the importance of the hardware business to the community, saying that a large hardware store carries from 40,000 to 60,000 different articles. He said the hardware store carries more articles than even a drug store which must stock a large variety of products.

The club decided to hold its last meeting until September next Monday evening when Eugene Wright of H. M. Byllesby Co. will talk on bonds. John W. Fugh, boys' work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., asked the help of the club to secure cars to take boys to Camp Onaway, Waukegan, a week from Thursday.

BLAINE ASSAILS WORLD COURT IN KEYNOTE SPEECH

Governor Says Court Is Part of League in Address at Clintonville

Clintonville. (AP)—Opening his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States senator, Governor John J. Blaine Tuesday expressed opposition to both the League of Nations and the World Court and said he was in favor of the adoption by congress of a resolution withdrawing America's adherence to the World Court.

Governor Blaine chose this small town to open his first week's speaking tour in his campaign, dwelling at length on the significance of American adherence to the World Court, which he asserted "promises nothing for America excepting grief and humiliation."

"It is a court that is tied to an alien, political military system of government and America once in the World Court is bound not only by moral obligations but legal obligations to enforce the decisions of the World Court and to enforce those decisions by war, is the League of Nations so chooses," he declared.

The World Court is not a "child," but an essential part of the League of Nations dependent upon the league for enforcement of its decisions, the governor contended.

Neither the world court nor the league, the speaker said, hold out the faintest hope of peace.

Mrs. James O'Connell of Maple Grove, returned home Sunday after spending two weeks at the home of Mrs. Henry Lemke, 1020 W. Fourth-st.

JOHN and FAY MILBURN buy a home of their own shortly after their baby girl is born and the advertising agencies in which John is a partner and copy writer lands a new contract.

Previous chapters told how John, a romantic individual, was fascinated on meeting NELL ORME, of whom PAT FORBES, one of John's best friends, hints that she is having trouble with her husband.

DR. DICK MENEFFEE marries MARGARET WAYNE and John is best man. Margaret's younger sister, CLARA, runs away and marries CLIFTON LANE, whom John cordially dislikes.

A party is given by NOEL and VERA BOYD, and Vera shows an interest in John which he does not return. Nevertheless, Fay Milburn notices it and there is a quarrel between her and John.

During a poker game in a hotel, Noel Boyd, who is playing with PAUL DAVIDSON, Meneffee, John and Pat Forbes, gets drunk and makes the statement that most married men are liars and inclined to be untrue to their wives, and brags of an arrangement between him and the wife, Vera, whereby each has the other's permission to do as he chooses.

The others, excepting Davidson, who is a bachelor and something of a roue, are a little shocked and Noel calls them hypocrites.

John and Fay and their baby, JUDITH, go to MILWAUKEE, their old home, for a visit, and John leaves after a week and returns to Appleton.

HOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

(The names and situations in this story are fictitious)

CHAPTER XXIV

It was a new John Milburn that returned to Appleton and threw himself into his work. A little rest, a little change had done wonders for him, and even Nat Graham, his uncommunicative partner, noticed his enthusiasm and made some terse comment on it.

There were a couple of new accounts—small ones it is true but good business, nevertheless. John on himself nearly swamped with work, but feeling as he was, he rather enjoyed it.

He remarked one afternoon to Nat Graham, "Well, things seem to be coming out a little better."

Graham grunted "Uh huh."

John pulling his battered pine out of its place in his desk, drawer, pushed himself for a minute with a bit of tobacco and a match.

"Nat," he said, leaning back in his chair and expelling a huge cloud of smoke, "don't you think it's time we were expanding a little?"

Graham looked up with an expression of annoyance. "What do you mean?"

"You know—here we are growing right along now. We really ought to have another office. Things are full of now, and some of our old work has to be done on the outside. It is why not take on someone else—someone for a small salary? We could keep him busy, between our work and the stuff we could throw his way."

Graham considered this. "Well, and he would have to be gazed with his hooded eyes at the pencil he was holding. We might consider it. But for just yet. Wait a little while."

"I don't see what's to prevent us from doing it right away," said John, a little nettled. "We've got a lot more business than we had when we look on Briggs—and we're making that much more money. We're growing, Nat. Can't you see it? Why he picks all our lives? Why not show the world that we're getting along?"

"Well, I'll tell you," Nat answered. "Of course, we've been getting new business, but how do we know some of that business isn't going to slip away from us? We want to consolidate our position first. See what I mean?"

"Yes, I see what you mean," retorted John, "and I think you're arguing like an old woman."

"Of course," Graham said coldly. "If you're going to get nasty about it—"

"Oh, hang it, Nat," John burst forth. "I don't mean to be nasty. It just seems to me, though, that every suggestion I make you disapprove. We need a new artist and we ought to have one. If you think we ought to wait—all right. If Briggs can stand it we can. But we need some body to give me a lift with copy, too. I've got more on my hands now than I want to carry after Fay gets back. While she's away I don't mind working nights, but it's not fair to her to keep it up."

Graham seemed concerned. He looked at John with a positively pained expression and his heavy eyelids fluttered as he said, "I'm sorry, John, I really didn't realize you were working so hard."

"Well," and John was a little mollified by the other's conciliatory tone. "I don't mean to say that I'm breaking too long. This bachelor business is all right for a while but after a while begins to get monotonous."

"Do you cook your own meals?" Blodgett asked, and John thought, "Well, you're curious ain't you?" But he answered, laughing, "Not on your life. I take all my meals out."

Blodgett frowned. "Well," he said, "I certainly couldn't do that."

John, a little uncomfortable, said, "Oh, I can cook an egg and get some bacon in shape and brew a pot of coffee but frankly I don't like the idea of a lot of dirty dishes piled up in the sink. I can't bear the sight of them."

"They don't bother me," Blodgett declared. "I wash them."

John felt there was nothing more to be said and a little later he was glad to drop Blodgett off at his destination.

What a killjoy you are," he grumbled to himself as he watched the other turn in at the door of the bank where he worked.

Pat Forbes called him up at noon. "Heard you're hitting it," he laughed. "I'm in the same fix. Marian and the kids are away on a visit. What do you say we get together and share our sorrows—or drown 'em?"

"Time, Pat," John felt heartened at the prospect of company—nights were getting lonely for him.

"Well, I'll see you after work and we'll have dinner together and may be take in a show."

"I'm on," John hung up and turned back to his work. And that evening he and Forbes went to a burlesque show—the first time either had been to one in years—and wound up, drinking, at a road house, where both of them felt that

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." urged, and Pat was so argumentative about it, insisting that the other come over to his house, that John finally took him by the arm and dragged him.

"Don't wanna go over to your house," Forbes kept repeating all the way home. "I've got engagement tomorrow for dinner."

"You can keep it, Pat. I can give you a clean shirt and collar."

"Don't want your shirt."

"All right, I'll take you home to-morrow and let you wear your own. Tomorrow's Sunday, ain't it?"

They climbed out of bed very late Sunday morning both of them with headaches that caused them to complain to each other very loudly.

They went downtown for breakfast, the main course of which consisted of several cups of black coffee and then to the Forbes home where Pat changed his linen.

The telephone rang while Pat was dressing and John answered it. It was Howard Orme, wanting to speak to Pat.

John summoned him, and when Forbes was through talking he turned to John and said, "That was Howard calling to remind me of my dinner engagement at his house. They've taken pity on the poor bachelor—and you're invited along, John. What say?"

John started to protest, but Pat silenced him. "No, Nell was very insistent, and so was Howard. They're expecting you."

John was very glad, somehow, to say yes. Two hours later they were being admitted to the Ormes' home, and he was being greeted by Nell Orme, and thrilling to the sound of her voice and the touch of her hand.

LETTER FROM PAULA PERIER
TO SYDNEY CARTON

I couldn't talk to you last night. I was so full of heart. I felt that everything I have in the world to cling to was going out of my life.

You must have thought that I was very unappreciative of your kindness and friendship as I had nothing to say when you were leaving your friends for a long journey with the possibility of never returning.

Dear Syd my heart was too full. I have no so many friends that I could let me best one go without a wrench that would tear my heart strings.

Do you know Sydney Carton what you have been to me?

Let me tell you.

You were the one person man or woman who after my father came gave me a desire to live. You are the only man in all my life that I have really trusted. You have made me believe in human goodness.

You brought back my faith in God. All the time you were sitting there in my little drawing room at the Plaza, probably thinking I had grown hard and cynical. I was trying to open my breaking heart so I could talk to you. But I could only feel it hurt. I could not speak of it.

Today I am writing to tell you that it is to you dear Syd and that I owe everything good that my life has been. I gave my love—myself—to you. I went down into the depths to pay for it. I do not owe John Alden Prescott anything. I owe my ambition and hard work to that kindly old Jew who made me a moving picture actress and I owe very much more money for him than I have for myself. I do not owe him anything for even his kindness. I am linked with commercialism.

Put you dear Syd I can never repay what you have given me. To you and Leslie Prescott I shall be in debt forever.

I can never tell you just how I feel toward Leslie. I honestly never knew there could be a woman like her. Up to the time when she adopted little Jack when I almost went insane with hunger and shame, I felt him outside her door. I felt that my hand was against all my sex even her and it seemed as though all women's hands were against me.

Oh Syd I wish you were not going. I'm sure I shall miss you in the future.

Syd I must tell you something that I would not dare to tell you if you were not going away. I still love Jack.

Adventures
Of The Twins

THE STRETCHY POLICEMAN

Did you see any signs of a china elephant and a toy clown? Nick asked the corner policeman in the city of Any Place At All.

The policeman started to answer but as his voice began to get farther and farther away the Twins looked up quickly to see what had happened.

And there if you please was his head about half a mile up in the air and keeping on going. At last there was no head to be seen at all—nothing but a long long neck!

Then as they looked his head started to come down again and finally it settled back where it belonged on his shoulders.

"But I beg your pardon," he remarked, "but I had to speak to a friend of mine on Jupiter. Now what did you ask me please?"

They were looking for Inco and his china elephant, and a toy clown called Flops. said Nick. We were told that he came to Dr. Vay's land on the Moon. Did you see him?

"What did he look like?" asked the policeman. But at that his head was gone again and his voice trailed off in the distance. Not up this time but sideways. His long neck stretching down the street and around a corner.

And then as the Twins watched, one of his arms stretched after his neck and it too disappeared around the corner.

By and by the policeman's head and arm appeared again, and in a minute he was as good as new. But he had tight hold of an automobile which he pulled around in front of him.

"I'll not arrest you for speeding this time," he said to the driver, "but you must do it again. Remember if you do I'll see you I see everything for I can stretch my neck over house tops and trees and around all corners. Now go, but remember what I told you. You are not allowed to drive over ten miles a minute on the moon. Do you promise?"

I promise, said the man so the policeman let the poor trembling fellow go and he disappeared around the corner again like a flash.

Now please tell me your troubles all over again, said the policeman to the Twins. It was something about an elephant and a—something about an elephant and a—

But away went his head again this time around another corner. His head kept disappearing and coming back until finally Nick said to Nancy, "Come on. Let's go. We'll never find out about Inco and Flops this way."

Nancy laughed. "Wouldn't it be great to have a stretchy neck like that," she said. "We could stand still and let our necks do all the running around for us."

"I should say not," said Nick. "It's more fun to have all of you go on an adventure instead of just your head."

"That's right," nodded Nancy. "But this city of Any Place At All keeps you on the jump too much. I don't think we'll find Inco and Flops here anywhere. We'd better go to the next place. Goodness. Here comes that giant boy again. If we don't run he'll pick us up again and squeeze us like he did before. And—"

But the giant boy had spied them and it was too late to run. He picked them up but this time he did not squeeze them. He whirled them and then threw them across a moon mountain. This did not hurt, but they were in a place quite as queer as they had left.

HEAVY SLUGGING FEATURES MONDAY BALL GAMES

209 HITS SEND 102 RUNS OVER IN TWO LEAGUES

Two Hundred Names Appear in Lineups of 8 Games; Indians Alone in Second

Chicago—(P)—As the result of heavy hitting, many a major league pitching arm is weary Tuesday.

In eight games Monday, 209 safe hits were scored accounting for 102 runs. Two hundred names appeared in the box scores, thirty-four of them being pitchers. In a sixteen-inning struggle at Cincinnati, the league leaders rallied to tie Chicago in the ninth and win. Jack Hendricks used four of his best moundmen in winning the game. Rixey, Mays, Nehf and Donohue were used. Hugh Crtz, Ired second baseman, was knocked unconscious by a pitched ball and Mays and Peinich were ordered from the field for protesting a decision.

Pittsburgh and St. Louis each made 14 hits in a 13 to 11 victory for the Pirates. The Cardinals used six pitchers and Pittsburgh four. Rhen, St. Louis ace, was knocked out of the box.

Brooklyn and Boston divided a double bill, the first contest going to the Pirates in 11 innings, 8 to 7, and the Dodgers winning the second, 6 to 4. Sixty-one hits came from the afternoon's play. In the opening frame, Brooklyn made five runs in the ninth to tie the score which the Braves had amassed off the delivery of Dazzy Vance.

Jack Scott showed the best pitching anywhere in either league to beat Philadelphia, 10 to 3, ably supported by the Giants' bat. He permitted only six hits three of which came in the final inning.

In the American league the Athletics downed Boston, 7-6, in eleven innings, using Ehmke, Willis and Rommel.

It required ten innings for Detroit to topple the St. Louis Browns, 4-1. One of the Tigers featuring with a triple, double and a single.

Cleveland gained full possession of second place by beating Chicago, 5 to 2. Shaute, Indian server, leading his own batting attack with three singles. Connie Mack, recently traded Bing Miller to the St. Louis Browns for Bill Jacobson and then swapped Jacobson and two pitchers for Ehmke, Red Sox pitcher.

Monday Ehmke was knocked out of the box by his former team mates in three innings.

Jacobson made a home run, a double and two singles, and scored two runs for Boston.

Miller made a home run, two singles stole a base and scored two runs for St. Louis.

WRINKLE SQUAD WINS IN K.C. BALL LEAGUE

Kimberly—The Clubhouse Boosters lost a fast game to Wrinkles Rounders in the Kimberly Softball League Monday evening by the close score of 18 to 16. FOHL HAS REAL BOX ARTIST IN WILTSE

Joe Fohl seems to have picked up a likely looking pitching prospect in Hal Wiltse. The youngster has turned in several notable victories this season. He's a former college star from the south.

LEFTY GROVE HAS CHANCE TO BREAK STRIKEOUT MARK

Youngster Only Hope to Come Near Waddell's Record, According to Evans

"Lefty" Grove has succeeded Walter Johnson as the strikeout king of the American League.

Walter Johnson, after 20 years of campaigning in the junior circuit, no longer gives a thought to striking out a batter, except in the all-important pinch.

Johnson, who once was figured as having pitched an ordinary game when he failed to whiff six or more of the opposition, is content to coast along.

Walter is now pitching with his head far more than his arm. He admits he didn't go to the gray matter stuff seriously until his arm began to fail him. Says he is sorry he didn't take up the so-called smart stuff sooner.

In the National League, Dazzy Vance still holds sway, despite the fact that crup of boils and a sore arm handicapped his work during the early stages of the race.

A fan writes me asking what chance either Grove or Vance has of breaking the strikeout record of the major leaguers?

I might say that both have a chance but it is rather remote. Grove I believe has greater possibilities than Vance, since he has youth, enabling him to work much oftener than the Brooklyn star.

The strikeout record of the majors is held by the late Rube Waddell, who in 1904 whiffed 343 batters. Waddell was a left-hander.

The nearest approach to this record in the majors was made by Walter Johnson in 1910, when he sent 313 of the opposition back to the bench on strikes.

I am positive that if Walter Johnson had been a record-seeker he could have broken Waddell's mark that season. Johnson only worked when pressed. If his team gave him a three or four-run lead he was willing to take things easy.

I umpired a number of ball games for Johnson that season in which he would cut down on his speed the moment his teammates gave him a safe working margin.

Johnson won 25 games in 1910, so it is easy to figure there were a number of spots where Walter was not forced to put forth his best efforts.

Again in 1912 Johnson struck out 308 men. He won the remarkable number of 32 ball games that year with a club that was far from great. That season marked Johnson's last threat at the Waddell record. During the next four years he got 200 or more batters on strikes. Since 1916 he hasn't broken into the 200 class.

Vance's best effort came in 1923 when he fanned 262 men in 309 innings. This year, in the first 14 innings he pitched, he struck out 41 men, one an injury.

Vance's arm is no longer able to work overtime and for that reason his chances of breaking Waddell's mark of 343 strikeouts is just a mere possibility.

Without a doubt "Lefty" Grove is the only pitcher in the majors with a chance to dethrone the great Rube Waddell.

This season, in the first 103 innings, he pitched four fanned 83 men. While great pitching, it is below the average that would have to be maintained to smash the Waddell mark.

Grove, as a member of the Baltimore club, bettered Waddell's average for five successive years. Waddell averaged 7.29 strikeouts per game in 1904 when he set his record mark. Grove, as a minor leaguer, averaged from 8.11 per game to 10.88.

This best season in the minors was in 1923 when he struck out 330 batters, an average of almost 11 per game.

Grove is the pitching sensation of the year. His chance to break Waddell's record merely adds to the interest that is being taken in his work.

Home Talent Is Vital Part Of Baseball, Downer Says

Home talent baseball is a vital part of the national pastime, according to George F. Downer, Milwaukee sports writer, who penned the following about the Fox River Valley idea:

Fans in the larger cities of the state, accustomed to first class professional or semi-pro baseball, do not realize what a vital thing is this home talent movement in the national game. Home talent baseball is growing by leaps and bounds in Wisconsin. It is one of the most healthful signs to be seen in community sports and recreation today, comparable with the growth of golf in its significance. All over Wisconsin these home talent baseball leagues are springing up and all of them thrive. The proposition is simple enough. It is merely baseball played, as it used to be played in the early days of the game, by clubs which are made up of actual residents of the towns in whose name they play. There is no effort to draw the line between amateur and professional, which has caused some proponents of purely amateur sports to look askance at the movement. But it is founded on a sound principle. Every member of a home talent team must be a bona fide resident of the town on whose team he plays, the usual residence requirement being about six months, long enough to guarantee that no unfair recruiting will be done.

Home talent does not produce as fast an article of baseball as is furnished by the best semi-pro clubs, like the Kenosha Twin Sixes and Beloit Fairies. But since the home talent clubs really represent the towns whose uniforms they wear, each community rallies to its own team. A Watertown team in such a league, made up of Watertown players, wins the sincere support of Watertown people. No club of mere mercenaries could do this. So far as the writer knows, all the home talent leagues are prospering. We have yet to hear of one which has not finished its season. Aside from awakening local interest, these clubs have a better chance for success because they escape the crushing burden of big salaries which always characterizes semi-pro ball. When a semi-pro club is losing, the first thought is always to go out and hire some new—and more expensive—talent. The overhead is ruinous.

Home talent players receive only nominal salaries. The expenses are watched carefully and all profits go into a "pot" which is generally, though not in all cases, split among the members of the club at the end of the season. To illustrate, the regular allowance for salaries in the Fox River Valley league, fastest of the Wisconsin circuit of this class, is $45 per game—for the entire team. On this basis, Fond du Lac last year had $900 to split among the players at the end of the season. Compare this with the Madison Blues, a representative semi-pro club which has to live on gate receipts and a fund raised by sport loving citizens. The latter, this year, amounted to $4,000. The Blues have a weekly expense of approximately $1,300. Last week they played two games in Chicago for which they received about $500. The conclusion is obvious. Home talent ball will replace semi-pro ball everywhere in Wisconsin, within a few years—except in a few cities where powerful industrial concerns are able and willing to subsidize expensive professional clubs.

Founding the offerings of Colvin hard after the first few frames and aided by glaring errors by their opponents, especially Wenzel at left shortstop, the Y. M. C. A. ball club shot up a notch in the Twilight softball loop Monday afternoon at Interlake park, by trouncing the Meyer Press team, 13-3. The win raised the "Y" crew from a tie for fourth with the Pressmen to a tie for third with the Bankers, a game behind first place. The defeat for the Pressmen shot that squad from a fourth place tie to one for fifth with the cellar Interlakes who won their first tie last week when they spoiled the clean slate of the up-to-date-time undefeated Legion squad.

Kotal, Zussman, Lutz and Duffner scored two runs apiece for the winners and were the batting stars. R. Colvin and Bayer starred with the bat for the winners and H. Colvin brought in three bats. Lutz allowed the losers nine safe swats while Colvin allowed eleven, seven coming in one bad frame, the eighth, in which the Triangles scored in the first frame without a hit, though Colvin fanned two men. In the second the losers scored twice, the last time until the seventh when one more came over. The winners counted four times in the third and once in the fourth for a 6-2 lead and then salted the tilt away in the eighth with the seven runs.

3-CORNERED TIE IN BALL LEAGUE

Freedom, Oneida, Wrightstown Knotted for Top in New Intercounty Circuit

Standings W. L. Pct.
Freedom 3 1 .750

Wrightstown 3 1 .750

SUNDAY GAMES
Freedom 7, Wrightstown 6.
Oneida 6, Combined Locks 3.
Little Chute 5, De Pere 1.

In three of the most closely-contested games in the Intercounty loop this summer, Freedom, Oneida and Little Chute were returned winners Sunday afternoon, changing the loop standings considerably. Freedom, which had clung to second place, gave up the undefeated Wrightstown squad its first loss of the year to pull that crew out of a lone position on the top rung and tie three teams for the honors. The other squad is the speedy Oneida crew, which had been tied with Freedom for second and had improved its chances by whipping the Combined Locks Specials. These two games were both undecided until the final stanza, Freedom beating the leaders, 7-6, and the cellar Locks crew forcing the Indians to a hard 4-3 win.

Little Chute, which had not won a tilt this year and had been tied with the Locks for the cellar hole smacked De Pere, 8-1, to shoot into fourth place and send the losers, who were in that position, down to fifth.

Pingel and Schommer was the battery which aided Freedom in pulling Wrightstown off the top. In Little Chute's win Pican and Miron was the battery with Sardinior and Duck performing for the losing De Peremen. At the Locks, Metoxen and Skenadore worked for Oneida and Stegeman and Dix for the losers. In this tilt, Metoxen fanned four and allowed nine hits while Stegeman set a loop record by fanning thirteen, but he also allowed twelve hits to offset this.

Sunday leaders play second division squads and should take easy wins unless the dope is badly upset. Wrightstown performs at Little Chute; Freedom invades Combined Locks, and DePere goes to Oneida.

Brewers lose again while Colonels win.

Milwaukee—Carmen (Spectacles) Hill hogged the whole show at Athletic park Monday and when he had finished a careful pitching exhibition the Brewers were in the useless end of a 7 to 2 count. It was the fifth of a series of reversals for the house of Borcher and imperils second place in the standings, the margin this morning over the Indians showing just two games.

Pink Mitchell hits Tom Freeman tonight.

Cleveland, Ohio—(P)—Tommy Freeman, Cleveland, and Pinkie Mitchell, Milwaukee, meet in a ten-round no-decision bout at Olympic arena here Tuesday night. They are welterweights.

Jersey City, N. J.—(P)—Mickey Dixon, Fort Worth, Tex., scored a technical knockout over Giovanni Salerno, Italy (1).

K-C JUNIORS WALLOP APPLETON BALL CLUB

Kimberly—The Kimberly-Clark Co. Juniors had a easy time with the Milwaukee Journal squad of Appleton Sunday afternoon at the Kimberly ball park, scoring 24 runs while holding the Journal squad to 2. Vander Zanden on the mound for Kimberly hurled fine fall and held the Appleton team with ease throughout the game. Berg, pitcher for the Journal team was hit often and hard, and every member of the Kimberly squad crossed the plate more than once.

The Juniors were to play South Side Tigers of Appleton Tuesday afternoon at Interlake park at Appleton.

East Chicago, Ind.—Billy Petrelle, Fargo, N. D. won a technical knockout over Frankie Schaff of Chicago (1). Milget Smith, New York and Ray Ruchell, Chicago, fought a draw (10).

Bohler will be football and basketball coach here. He will be assisted by Fred Schildhauer, former Illinois star, and Pat Uetrosik, local Lincoln High school mentor, who have been added to the sports staff. All three will take up their duties for the first time this fall.

PAIR OF TWO-SWAT TILTS ON SAME DAY

Two two-hit games in the American League on the same afternoon aren't so very common these days. A pair of such achievements cropped out the other day at Cleveland and Chicago.

The Indians, with Uhl pitching, whipped the hard-hitting Athletics, Mack's boys getting a single and a double, good for one run. The White Sox tripped to Nationals, Alphonse Thomas letting the Griffs down with a pair of singles and no runs.

MICHIGAN GOLFERS WIN FROM WISCONSIN STARS

Golfers of northeastern Wisconsin were unsuccessful in their invasion of upper Michigan Monday, taking a decisive trimming from the linksmen of the neighboring state, according to Appleton men who took part in the most. None of the local men stayed to the finish or waited for the final score but the upper Michigan men had an easy lead on Frank Kerwin's Wisconsin squad. Ken Dickinson lost both his morning and afternoon matches. Heber Pelkey won in the morning and tied in the afternoon and D. Shepherd won in the morning, according to incomplete reports. The men represented the two local clubs.

Rare Turkish tobaccos give distinction to Chesterfield's blend

Drawing from a photograph by our Mr. Gary, showing the loading of Turkish tobacco aboard lighters to be transferred to the ocean liner in midstream.

For Chesterfields, the best Turkish tobacco — and nothing but the best!

Where does Chesterfield get its spicy tang, its delicate piquancy of taste and aroma? From costly Turkish tobaccos, world-famous, for their sheer excellence of quality.

And how does Chesterfield get its mellow fullness and its satin-smoothness? From the way this fine Turkish is blended with the choicest

Domestic leaf; carefully, shrewdly, in that can't-be-copied Chesterfield way that brings out the hidden flavors in each type of leaf.

It took no end of skill and patient experiment to get this blend right.

Was it worth it? Just smoke a Chesterfield and let the good tobaccos speak for themselves!
